

WOMAN HELD UP BY HIGHWAYMAN

Attacks Rich Manufacturer's
Wife in a Dark and Lonely Street—She Tells of the Struggle with Robber.

Another assault and robbery has been added to the long list of crimes that has terrorized the women living in the vicinity of One Hundred and Forty-second street and Broadway. Mrs. Sophia Frankfort is the latest victim, and she is the fifteenth woman who has been attacked and robbed in the neighborhood within the past two years.

The police seem powerless to prevent the crimes, and the men residing in the vicinity are planning the organization of a vigilance committee for the protection of their wives, mothers, sisters and daughters.

The neighborhood is dark and particularly well suited to the purposes of the criminals who have made it their stamping ground since the opening of the subway was begun at One Hundred and Forty-second street and Broadway. The police protection is inadequate and women have reached the stage where they are afraid to go out after nightfall.

The attack on Mrs. Frankfort was particularly atrocious, but bears a similarity to many respects to numerous other hold-ups that have occurred in the same neighborhood.

Mrs. Frankfort is the wife of Solomon Frankfort, a skirt manufacturer, living at No. 415 West One Hundred and Forty-second street. She is pretty, twenty years old and is the mother of a four-months-old child. When asked by an Evening World reporter today she told the following story of the hold-up:

"I had been waiting about the dangers of being on the street in the neighborhood of my house, but paid little attention to them. I have been out shopping yesterday afternoon and returned home on an Amsterdam avenue car. To reach the house it is necessary to pass Hamilton place. Then comes Broadway, which is terribly cut up and in the greatest disorder. On the corner is a vacant lot. Then comes the row of houses, of which mine is the third.

"When passing Hamilton place I noticed the shadow of a man. I then quickened my pace and passed a footbridge over the tunnel excavation. The lamp on the corner of the street was unlighted. It always is in that condition. While crossing the footbridge I had my right hand at my hat to keep it from blowing off. My left hand, in which was a large automobile bag, was raised to hold up my dress.

"The man who was following me came up suddenly from behind, seized me by the right shoulder and swung me round. He had no assistant, as was first reported. He was very nervous when I was first reported. He was very nervous when I was first reported. He was very nervous when I was first reported.

MRS. CULVER IN NEW YORK AGAIN

Returns from European Trip, but Declines to Discuss Suit for Divorce She Has Brought Against Husband.

Action in the divorce suit of Mrs. Everett Mallory Culver, daughter of Senator Clark, of Montana and New York, may be expected in a short time. Mrs. Culver arrived to-day from Europe on the Teutonic. The suit was filed before she sailed from New York last summer, and knowledge of the fact reached the public only a few days ago.

Mrs. Culver refused to discuss the case with the reporters who met her on the ship. When told it was reported that her father was in ignorance of the fact that a suit for divorce had been brought until he saw it published in the newspapers she said she had nothing to say. Neither would she admit or deny that there was a chance of reconciliation.

Mrs. Culver was accompanied by her little daughter Katherine, for the custody of whom she sues in her divorce action. They went from the pier to the residence of Mrs. Culver's sister, Mrs. Lewis Rutherford Morris, at No. 136 West Fifty-eighth street.

Mrs. Morris and her brother, Charles Clark, met Mrs. Culver at the pier. They were allowed to board the steamship and go to the cabin of their sister. There they remained until Mrs. Culver's baggage had been examined, when they left the ship together.

Senator Opposes Suit.

Senator Clark, it is said, is bitterly opposed to the suit for divorce brought by his daughter, although the other members of his family are reported to side with Mrs. Culver. Whether the desires of the Montana copper king will prevail over the determination of his daughter to discard her husband will be known within a short time.

Thanksgiving Preparations.

It is a long reach from 1623, when Governor Bradford and his stern and heroic Pilgrims bent their knees in acknowledgment of thanks for mercies and favors received, to the present Thanksgiving period with its solemn national observance, its outdoor recreations, its theatrical diversions, its home amusements and great festive dinner.

In 1789 Washington, by request of Congress, appointed a day for Thanksgiving. At later periods there were divers such days. During the Civil War President Lincoln issued a proclamation recommending annual Thanksgivings, and since then the custom has been followed, the various Presidents, Governors and Mayors issuing Proclamations.

There is Plenty of Reason for Especially Celebrating Thanksgiving This Year.

The country has been unprecedentedly prosperous. Business in many of its phases at flood-tide. The Siegel Cooper Store is splendidly ready for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

For Thanksgiving there is everything in the realm of wines, foods, condiments, clothing, hats, shoes and finery here that the season can possibly require.

Stocks are prodigious; they are thoroughly representative. Prices are notably moderate, being as low as they can be for the respective lines without the sacrifice of quality.
